TAIANA TULLY (Bree) – Taiana Tully is an actress, dancer, singer and model from Honolulu, Hawaii. She was born into a family of performers and has been training in Hula and Tahitian dance since she could walk. Tully started dancing professionally at the age of seven and has traveled internationally on an annual tour with the Polynesian dance theatrical company, Tunui's Royal Polynesians.

Ever since she was a child, Tully had a special love for television and movies. In her junior year of high school, Tully decided that she wanted to pursue acting professionally. She was involved in her high school theater programs, film programs and received private acting coaching at a local community theater. She won several awards for best actress at her high school for her roles in student films and on stage. Tully was picked up by her first agent after being scouted at her high school's musical production of The Fantasticks.

Soon after graduating, Tully booked her first professional role in a Christian feature film called The Lost Adventure, A Journey Off the Map. After an eventful summer, she moved to Los Angeles to attend the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, a private performing arts conservatory. During preparation for her last exam play, Tully was involved in a serious car accident that immediately forced her to move back to Hawaii to get proper care.

While Tully took some time to recover, she earned her degree from AADA remotely, and briefly moved to England to be with a friend who was also involved in the car accident. While in Sheffield, England, Tully continued to train in classical singing with an accredited Royal Schools of Music teacher. When Tully was visiting Hawaii for the holidays, she signed with talent agency Bliss Models and Talent, and booked a feature film, Water Like Fire, which compelled her to stay in Hawaii instead of taking her return flight back to England.

Since then, Tully has appeared in over a dozen commercials for companies such as McDonald's, Island Insurance and Zippy's as well as lead roles in feature films such as Aloha Surf Hotel and Water Like Fire, both of which were featured at the Hawaii International Film Festival in 2020. Additionally, she has appeared in several network television shows and had a recurring role on "Magnum P.I." as well as guest starring roles on "Hawaii 5-0" and the Netflix series "The Naked Director."

When Tully is not working in film or television productions, she is a character performer for Disney. She loves working with children, bonding with animals, and spending time in nature. She is an avid gym-goer and mental health advocate working towards a bachelor degree in Psychology from Bellevue University. Tully's youngest brother, Teagan, lives with special needs, and cannot eat, walk, talk, nor breathe on his own. Tully is very passionate about spreading awareness of children with special needs like Teagan, and how important it is to give them the opportunity to still be a kid and have fun. She hopes to spread love, joy, excitement, hope, and compassion around the world with the art of storytelling through movies and television.
